Swimming Scientifically Taught

Every person should perfect himself in this art in order to safeguard himself when in or upon the water. For a man not to be able to swim points to some-thing like criminal negligence. A person who cannot swim may become not only a danger to himself, but to others in time of emergency. Children should early be taught to swim. None are too old to learn and none can learn too soon.

As an exercise swimming is one of the best. It increases the vitality and im-proves the circulation; it develops the nuncies, expands the lungs and promotes the general health. It is especially serv-iceable in reducing corpulency and im-proving the figure; to nervous people it is
